Artist to Give First in Series of Four Lectures

Edward Reep, chairman of the painting department at Chouinard Art Institute, will present the first of a series of four public lectures on the "World of Art" next Wednesday at 7:30 at Gardena High School, 1801 W. 182nd St. Title of the first program will be "Art Through The Ages," and will explain the role of the artist in relation to his society, his needs, exploration, and the demands made upon him. The "World of Art" program will be viewed through the famous collection of paintings of Gardena High School. The collection was originated by John Whitely, principal of Gardena High School in 1919. It became the tradition for the graduating class to buy a painting as a class gift. A special gallery houses the collection at the school.

Thom McAn Chain Will Open Modern Store Here March 17

A new Thom McAn drive-in family shoe store in the greater Torrance-Gardena area is nearing completion. The building, completely air-conditioned, is scheduled for opening March 17 at 159th St. and Crenshaw Blvd. The store will feature individual men's, women's and children's departments showing the latest fashions selected from outstanding design trends from around the world, according to L. A. Shea, West Coast vice president of Melville Shoe Corporation's Thom McAn division. Designed by Mayer and Kanner, A.I.A., of Los Angeles, the shoe center is constructed of concrete block and stone veneer with a main facade of glass. The store has 7200 square feet of floor area.

Located across from El Camino College, the new store features a glass front wall to enable passerby to view the large sales room with its acoustical-tile ceiling and asphalt-tile flooring. Distinguishing features will be harmonious pastel colors and furnishings, Shea said.
